

StreetNotes.ai vs Fellow.ai — Competitive Dominance Report

BLUF: Fellow.ai is an AI meeting assistant for desk-based teams on video calls. StreetNotes.ai is a voice-first field intelligence platform for salespeople who sell face-to-face. Fellow cannot serve our market. We serve theirs and go further.

Fellow.ai — What They Are

- Category: AI meeting notetaker / meeting productivity platform
- Founded: Ottawa, Canada | CEO: Aydin Mirzaee | ~67-200 employees
- Funding: $30.5M raised (Series A $24M, Oct 2021)
- Revenue: Estimated $10-25M ARR
- Pricing: Free / $7 Team / $15 Business / $25 Enterprise (per user/mo)
- Core function: Record, transcribe, and summarize scheduled video meetings (Zoom, Teams, Google Meet)
- Target: Any team that has recurring video meetings — CS, engineering, product, HR, sales, leadership
- Integrations: 50+ (Salesforce, HubSpot, Slack, Asana, Jira, Notion, Zapier)

Where StreetNotes.ai Dominates

1. Voice-First vs Meeting-Dependent

Dimension	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
Input method	Joins scheduled video calls as a bot	Rep talks into their phone anytime, anywhere
Requires a meeting?	Yes — Zoom, Teams, or Google Meet	No — parking lot, car, hallway, post-appointment
Field sales support	None — designed for desk workers	Built for reps who are never at a desk

Capture speed	Must schedule and attend a call	60-second voice debrief after any interaction
----------------------	---------------------------------	---

- Fellow requires a scheduled video meeting to function. An aesthetic rep leaving a MedSpa has nothing to record.
- StreetNotes captures intelligence from any conversation — in-person, phone, hallway, trade show floor — via a 60-second voice note.

2. Competitive Intelligence vs Transcription

Dimension	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
CI extraction	Keyword tracking (Business tier, $15+)	AI-powered 6-type intelligence classification
Brand intelligence	None	Allergan vs Galderma vs Merz heatmap
Competitor mentions	Flagged keywords, no analysis	Classified, scored, aggregated into dashboards
Organizational intelligence	None	Weekly Field Intelligence Briefs for leadership
Territory-level insights	None	Territory Battleground Map from aggregated rep data

- Fellow can flag that someone said "Galderma" in a meeting. It cannot tell you what they said, whether it's a threat or opportunity, or how it compares to what 20 other reps are hearing.
- StreetNotes extracts, classifies, and aggregates competitive intelligence across every rep conversation into actionable dashboards.

3. Skill Development vs Zero

Dimension	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
Story practice	None	Story Vault with 3 story types + AI drafting
Scoring	None	6-dimension scoring (framework, clarity, confidence, pacing, specificity, brevity)

Coaching	Private comments on recaps (Business+)	AI coaching with detailed improvement guidance + concrete examples
Gamification	None	Streaks, 10 XP levels, 10 badges, daily challenges, leaderboard
Team learning	Shared recording library	Team Vault — best-scoring stories accessible to all reps

- Fellow has zero skill development features. No practice, no scoring, no gamification.
- StreetNotes makes reps better every day through the Story Vault — the only voice-practice platform with AI scoring in the sales tool market.

4. Industry Specificity vs Generic

Dimension	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
Vertical focus	None — serves everyone generically	Purpose-built for aesthetic salespeople
Industry context	Zero	Allergan, Galderma, Merz, Revance, Evolus brand dynamics
Objection handling	Generic meeting templates	"Switching a Loyal Allergan Account," "MedSpa Grand Opening Pitch"
Sales methodology	MEDDIC/BANT/SPICED templates	Founders' 45 years of field sales experience encoded in every prompt

- Fellow is a horizontal tool that serves HR, engineering, product, and sales equally poorly for specialized use cases.
- StreetNotes is built for one market and owns it completely.

5. Real-Time Coaching vs Post-Meeting Only

Dimension	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
Real-time assistance	None — explicitly listed as a con in reviews	AI coaching during practice sessions
Post-interaction guidance	Meeting recap with action items	Structured debrief with CI extraction + coaching feedback
Improvement loop	Read your transcript, figure it out	Score → specific feedback → re-record → improve

- Fritz.ai's review explicitly lists "No live assistant for real-time coaching and advice" as a Fellow con.
- StreetNotes provides AI coaching with specific, actionable improvement guidance tied to the rep's actual performance.

6. Pricing — More Value at Every Level

Tier	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai
Free	5 notes lifetime, 5 recordings lifetime	Unlimited debriefs at notes.streetnotes.ai
Mid-tier	$15/user/mo (CRM sync, keyword tracking)	$149/seat/mo (full CI, Story Vault, CRM sync, gamification)
Team	$25/user/mo Enterprise (AI CRM updates, analytics)	$199/seat/mo (CI Dashboard, manager dashboard, Team Vault)

- Fellow's free tier is effectively a demo — 5 notes for life.
- StreetNotes' free tier is a fully functional tool that drives viral adoption.
- Fellow charges $25/user for AI CRM updates. StreetNotes includes CRM sync, CI extraction, Story Vault, and gamification at $149.

Fellow's Structural Weaknesses StreetNotes Exploits

- Meeting-dependent architecture. Fellow cannot capture a single insight from a face-to-face conversation. In aesthetics, 90%+ of selling happens in person at MedSpas.

Fellow is architecturally irrelevant.

- No intelligence layer. Fellow transcribes. StreetNotes thinks. The CI Dashboard turns individual rep conversations into organizational strategy.
- No daily engagement mechanism. Fellow is opened when a meeting happens. StreetNotes' Story Vault + gamification creates a daily habit. Daily engagement = lower churn, higher expansion.
- No network effect. Fellow's recordings sit in silos. StreetNotes' Team Vault and cross-company Story Vault create a knowledge-sharing flywheel that gets more valuable with every user.
- Generic positioning. Fellow serves "everyone" — which means they optimize for no one. StreetNotes owns aesthetic sales reps completely.

The One-Line Pitch Against Fellow

"Fellow records your Zoom calls. StreetNotes turns every conversation your reps have — in the field, on the phone, at a MedSpa — into competitive intelligence, skill development, and organizational strategy. Fellow takes notes. StreetNotes builds empires."

Summary

Category	Fellow.ai	StreetNotes.ai	Winner
Field sales support	None	Core architecture	StreetNotes
Competitive intelligence	Keyword flags	Full CI Dashboard	StreetNotes
Skill development	None	Story Vault + scoring	StreetNotes
Gamification / engagement	None	7 mechanics, daily habit	StreetNotes
Industry specificity	Generic	Aesthetics-native	StreetNotes
Real-time coaching	None	AI coaching	StreetNotes
Free tier value	5 notes lifetime	Unlimited debriefs	StreetNotes
Video meeting transcription	Excellent	Not primary focus	Fellow

Enterprise meeting governance	Strong	Not applicable	Fellow
Integration breadth	50+	Salesforce, HubSpot	Fellow

Fellow wins on meeting governance and integration breadth — features that are irrelevant to aesthetic field sales reps who never sit in Zoom meetings. StreetNotes wins on everything that matters to the target market.